Wreckage Of Plane Is Found

All Eleven Persons Aboard Are Alive; Transport Down Near Interlaken

PARIS, Nov. 22—(AP)—Only airfield announced tonight that the wreckage of an American C-53 transport sought since Tuesday had been found in the Alps near Interlaken, Switzerland, and that all the eleven persons aboard were alive.

The transport was found on a 30-degree slope about 500 feet from the peak of a 10,000-foot-high mountain, according to a message from one of the search planes which was in direct communication with the grounded crewmen.

Only Field said three persons were seen walking about the wreckage. A party of Swiss mountain climbers and American nurses and doctors left Interlaken immediately for the scene of the crash, reported to be 13 miles southeast of that city.

Supplies Dropped
Relief supplies were dropped and others were sped on the way to the snow-covered scene. A message from the faltering radio of the transport yesterday said eight of the eleven were "stretcher cases."

U. S. officers in Frankfurt, Vienna and Paris told of the developments in the quest which previously had been pressed fruitlessly in the French Alps to the southwest after the plane went down on a trip from Munich to Pisa via Marseille.

American and Italian paratroopers and trained mountaineers stood by for renewed efforts to save the passengers and crewmen—Brig. Gen. Loyd M. Haynes, his wife, the wives of three other army officers and an 11-year-old girl among them. They had pleaded by an enfeebled radio for medical aid, food and clothing.

Weather Was Bad
Foul weather blocked off the searchers temporarily this morning after a new radio "fix" on the transport swung the hunt to the

NEW YORK, Nov. 22—(AP)—Radio messages received from occupants of the plane crashed in the Alps said, "We are still alive, but we cannot hold out until tonight," BBC reported today. BBC said distress signals were received from the wreck at intervals this morning. The BBC broadcast was reported by NBC.

area below Interlaken from a zone in the French Alps approximately 80 miles to the southwest, where ground and air rescue efforts had proved fruitless.

Army radio operators blamed magnetic disturbances, which interfered with clear receipts of the transport messages, for the error in the original triangulation.

U. S. Army Air Force headquarters at Wiesbaden, Germany, said emergency call signals were being received hourly from the plane throughout the morning, reviving hopes that the seven passengers and four crewmen on the craft still might be found alive.

One despairing radio message reported from the plane yesterday said "It is urgent, we want to live," but the final message officials said was received last night reported: "We can hold out for another 24 hours."

Paratroopers Stand By
Earlier, army authorities had been alerted by a new radio "fix" on the supposed location of the downed C-53, 80 miles from the area in which the earlier searches had been conducted, but a heavy cloud blanket pinned searchers to the ground.

Trained American paratroopers were standing by in Frankfurt, Germany, and Italian paratroopers were ready in northern Italy. United States, Italian and French Alpinists and mountain troops had been moving in for new efforts on the steep, snowy slopes. American, British, and French planes were grounded by the clouds, and cloudy, rainy weather on the other side of the border kept Swiss fighter planes from taking off to join the search for the plane and its occupants, who include one despairing radio message reported from the plane yesterday said, "It is urgent, we want to live," but the final message officials said was received last night reported: "We can hold out for another 24 hours."

More Butter at Lower Prices

CHICAGO, Nov. 22—(AP)—More butter at lower prices in 1947 was predicted today by Russell Fifer, of Chicago, executive secretary of the American Butter Institute.

"Butter consumption in 1947 should be approaching normal, and butter consumption per capita may approximate 13 to 14 pounds," Fifer said in a statement. "The pre-war average consumption was 16 to 17 pounds per capita. In 1946 consumption has been 10 to 11 pounds per person."

Hundreds of Thousands of Diamonds Found in Japan

By Robert T. Geiger

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22—(AP)—Hundreds of thousands of cut diamonds probably the greatest assortment ever assembled in modern times—is in the hoard which American occupation forces uncovered in Japan.

Government officials said today the Japanese government collected the huge treasure from the Japanese people as a desperate war financing measure. Apparently the intention was to sell the gems for foreign exchange and purchase munitions and raw materials.

A war department announcement last night said the gems are valued at between $20,000,000 and $25,000,000. But gem experts with knowledge of the hoard said the army undoubtedly was speaking conservatively and of the New York wholesale price. In settings and in the possession of individuals, they said, the value would be far greater.

Unique Situation
"They represent the entire diamond resources of the whole nation," Edward Henderson of the Smithsonian Institute told a reporter. "This undoubtedly is a situation unique in history. I know of no other time when virtually every diamond owned by every individual in a nation was assembled at one place."

The gems now are in vaults of the Bank of Japan in Tokyo. They were found buried and hidden in many places of the Japanese empire.

The gems came into possession of the Japanese army when the government appealed to the people to turn them in. When the Japanese surrendered, the hoard became widely distributed.

Telling how the diamonds were found, officials here said one box was located in Tokyo after a Japanese reported to Americans he knew of a place "where diamonds are scattered all over."

Other Hiding Places
American army intelligence then uncovered other hiding places which yielded gallons of diamonds, often in flimsy containers such as shoe boxes. The gems were "in a confused condition. Dirty and mixed with worthless debris," the army announcement said.

Henderson and Dr. William H. Foshag, curator of minerals at the Smithsonian, were called to Tokyo to classify and appraise the "collection."

"If they had been piled in one heap, on a desk, I don't suppose you could have stretched your arms around the bottom of the pile," Henderson said.

Items Urgently Needed in U.S. Sold as Surplus in China

SHANGHAI, Nov. 22—(AP)—The Shanghai Evening Post & Mercury today said large quantities of narcotics, surgical dressings made by American housewives and medicinal brandy have been sold as surplus to Chinese merchants.

The newspaper declared that all of these items except brandy were sold in violation of specific regulations of the U. S. foreign liquidation commission.

It charged further that "it was learned unimpeachably" that an inventory of Okinawa medical stocks, including blood plasma and other items, sold to a Chinese merchant was in the hands of certain C personnel at least seven weeks ago.

Newark Gives Santa Claus Strict Orders

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 22—(AP)—The 1946 Santa Claus received his orders today. He must:

Pass a Wasserman test, a skin and chest X-ray; wear white gloves at all times and avoid the temptation to use them to "wipe his nose"; keep his beard dry and free of tobacco stains and head lice; keep his face, hands and clothing clean; meet the same standard demanded of a food handler.

Santa Claus last year had the option of submitting to the physical examination. It's obligatory this time. In fact, said Health Officer Charles V. Craster, there will be daily checks by City health department inspectors.

What's more, Santa Claus can't kiss the children, either.

Molotov Calls For Inventory Of All Troops

Renews Attack on United States And Great Britain

By Max Harrelson

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Nov. 22—(AP)—Soviet Minister V. M. Molotov today renewed his attack on the United States and Great Britain for maintaining troops in friendly countries and called for an immediate troop inventory to clear the atmosphere and relieve world anxiety.

In an hour-long speech before the 54-nation political committee of the United Nations assembly, Molotov repeated his earlier offer to accept an American proposal to broaden his own resolution to require reports on all troops in enemy countries as well as non-enemy states.

He said he saw no reason for including figures on enemy countries, but did not object to it if the United States insisted. At the same time, he said he did not object to a U. S. proposal that information also be given on troops at home.

In his speech last Wednesday, Molotov had suggested that the question of troops at home be divorced from the present discussions and taken up in connection with the next item on the agenda—Russia's four-point arms limitation proposals.

He spoke at length on American and British troops abroad, listing such countries as China, Iceland, Greece and Panama and said it was well known that some states—presumably the United States and Britain—had air and naval bases in all parts of the world.

The Soviet troop inventory proposal, he said, was put forward to eliminate rumors and misunderstandings. He then added that if full information were made available "there will be a cleansing of the atmosphere."

Referring to his earlier statement that all Soviet troops had been withdrawn from Iran, Molotov said there were rumors that some other countries still had troops on Iranian soil.

"Are we sure that troops or the remnants of troops have left Iran?" he asked. "There are many conjectures but nobody knows for sure."

After enumerating countries in which the United States and Britain had troops stationed, Molotov declared that the "presence of troops after the end of the war causes anxiety."

"We should see that the principles of the charter do not stay on paper," he added.

Head of Bell Co. Retiring

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 22—(AP)—Victor E. Cooley was elected president of the Southwestern Bell Telephone company at a meeting of the board of directors today. Cooley, now first vice president, will assume the presidency January 1, succeeding Albert C. Stannard, who is retiring. James L. Crump, general plant manager, was named first vice president.

Stannard's retirement will end 46 years of service with the Bell system. He has been president of Southwestern since 1937.

Cooley has been with the Bell organization for 35 years, starting at San Francisco. He came to Southwestern in 1921 as general toll traffic engineer and later served as traffic superintendent for the Texas area. From 1926 until 1945 he was with the New York Telephone Co. In August, 1945, he was elected vice president of Southwestern. He now lives in Ladue, a suburb of St. Louis.

Crump is a native of Fulton, Mo., and started his telephone career in 1905. He has been general plant manager for 10 years.

President CIO

Philip Murray Re-elected President CIO

Take Whack at Communist Party In Resolutions

By Max Hall

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 22—(AP)—Philip Murray today was re-elected president of the CIO by acclamation.

There was a 15-minute demonstration while a band played "Hail to the Chief."

Murray, 60 years old, now begins his seventh year as president. He accepted re-election in a speech which roused all factions in the convention to standing ovations with these words:

"Remain steadfast in your loyalties to this flag, the flag of the United States of America. Let us not misunderstand where you stand upon your allegiance to this flag."

The delegates took one more whack at the Communist party. They changed the preamble of the CIO constitution to declare: "We turn to the people because we have faith in them; and we oppose all those who would violate this American emphasis of respect for human dignity. All those who would use power to exploit the people in the interest of alien loyalties."

There was no debate. The convention, acting on a swarm of important measures, also adopted a foreign policy resolution calling for world disarmament and opposing further stockpiling of atomic bombs.

In contrast to other convention resolutions the recommendation on foreign policy brought a considerable number of "no" votes.

Jack Altman, vice president of the wholesale and retail union, declared in a fiery speech seeking to amend the statement that "dictatorship" should be condemned as a disease instead of merely "fascism."

He maintained the resolution should urge the entire United Nations—not merely the United States and Argentina, saying: "Soviet Russia made a pact with Hitler once. How do we know it won't make a pact with Franco?"

Condemned Veto Power
Altman also sought to include a condemnation of the veto power as it applied to atomic bombs. But Van A. Bittner, chairman of the resolutions committee, rose and said the statement was approved unanimously by the 28 members of the committee and that it "backs up every position taken by the United States."

There was no further debate. On this final day of a five-day meeting, the convention also:

Continued the CIO Political Action Committee and served notice the CIO-PAC will enter every important city and state election in 1947 (about 200 elections).

Formally began its fight against restrictive labor legislation with a speech by general counsel Lee Pressman, attacking Senator Ball, (R-Minn) as "the leader of the group that will seek anti-labor legislation."

Pressman said there is a "fierce struggle ahead." He said that "just as Hitler did in Mein Kampf, our enemies are telling us precisely what they intend to do. There is no element of surprise. Senator Ball has outlined his program."

Cooperative To Expand

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 22—(AP)—The Consumers Cooperative Association has launched an expansion program calling for an expenditure of $300,000 in the next five years.

The action was taken yesterday at the final session of the Co-operatives 28th annual convention. Delegates representing member cooperatives in nine middle western and western states also approved the role of the association in the launching of a World Oil Cooperative at Zurich, Switzerland, and urged that middle eastern oil be placed under proration commission of the United Nations.

Among those re-elected to the board of directors was T. H. DeWitt, Milan, Mo.

Lewis Accepts Court Summons Without Comment, Truman is Silent on New Developments

President Goes Deep Sea Fishing While His Cabinet Officers Fight Legal Battle

KEY WEST, Fla., Nov. 22 President Truman departed at 8:04 a. m. (EST) today in search of deep sea game fish while his cabinet officers fought a legal battle with John L. Lewis in the economic struggle precipitated by the walkout of 400,000 soft coal miners.

The President boarded a destroyer, the USS Stribling, for an all-day fishing trip.

Mr. Truman maintained a tight-lipped silence on developments at Washington, where District Judge T. Alan Goldsborough cited Lewis and his United Mine Workers to show cause why they should not be cited for contempt of his federal injunction.

This injunction sought to set aside Lewis' notice to the government of the cancellation effective at midnight last Wednesday of his work contract for his miners which Interior Secretary J. A. Krug contended he had no right to abrogate.

The President interrupted his fight with the mine workers chief yesterday for an inspection of a captured German submarine at the naval submarine base here and for a brief fishing expedition with Fleet Admiral William D. Leahy, his chief of staff.

Each caught a barracuda, a grouper and a Spanish mackerel. In addition Leahy pulled in a pompano.

There was no word here as to what steps the administration has in mind to persuade the miners to return to their pits in the face of Lewis' refusal to order them to do so.

Presidential Press Secretary Charles G. Ross told reporters he did not know the administration's next move and would not tell them if he did.

Mr. Truman returns to Washington tomorrow to take over personal direction of the government's effort to prevent an extended strike.

There was no indication here of any disposition on his part to call congress into an extraordinary session to provide new legislation in view of its previous refusal to pass anti-strike laws he called for last year when it brought out the Case bills to which he objected.

Marigold Tags To be Sold

The marigold, which comes from the azalea family, was recently adopted at a convention of the American War Dads and the American War Dads' auxiliary as their official flower.

On November 23 marigold tags will be sold in Sedalia by the auxiliary to the local War Dads chapter in downtown Sedalia.

According to a legend there was once a famine in England and there were no vegetables. Since the marigold grows practically any place like weeds the people cooked the plants and ate them as food and kept the children from starving. To this day the marigold is used as a herb in broths and soups. There are many species, some of them coming from the handsomest flowers in the world. Besides the United States these flowers are grown in Africa, France, Greece, Mexico and South America.

The number of Gold Star children, or children of men who lost their lives in World War II, in each family should be reported to the organization by calling Mrs. Delbert H. Neiberger, telephone number 2499J.

OK Funds for Public Works

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22—(AP)—The Federal Works Agency has announced approval of advances to finance preparation of plans and specifications for local public works in Missouri communities.

The advances, to be repaid without interest when construction is begun:

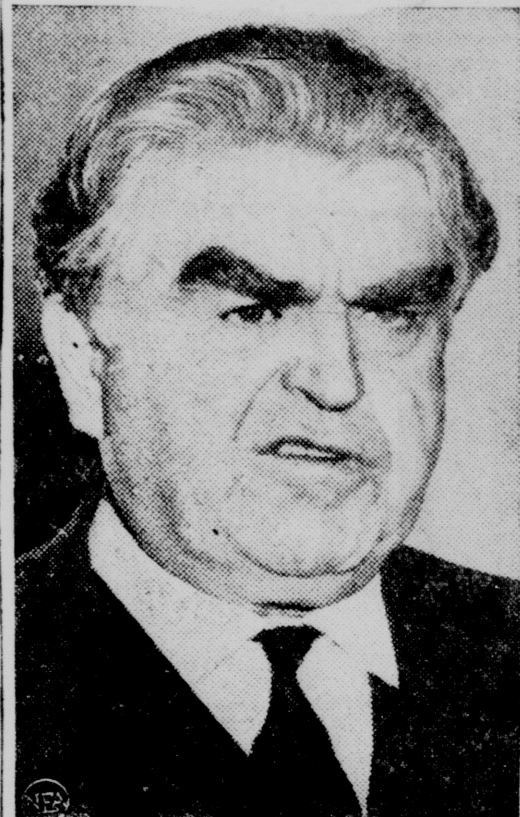

Missouri—Consolidated school district No. 3, Pike county elementary and high school at Clarksville, including classrooms and auditorium-gymnasium, estimated cost $201,000, federal advance $7,500. Slater, stadium, shelter houses, horse stalls, swimming pool repair and general site improvement, $50,000 and $2,050.

Rumor of U. S. Troops Going to Salonika

ATHENS, Nov. 21 (Delayed)—(AP)—The right wing newspaper Vradnyi printed a dispatch from its Salonika correspondent today quoting "authoritative sources" as saying that preparations were being made in Salonika for the arrival there of 18,000 American troops, expected early in December.

Col. Donald N. Wackwitz, U. S. military attaché in Athens, said he had "no comment" to make on the dispatch.

Ordered to Court

John L. Lewis was served by two federal marshals with a summons requiring his appearance in federal court on Monday morning to answer a contempt citation resulting from the soft coal strike. He accepted the summons without comment.

Strike Briefs

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22—(AP)—In the view of justice department attorneys, there is no limit to the penalty which may be imposed against John L. Lewis and his United Mine Workers union if they are held in contempt of court.

A department spokesman said that fines or jail sentences—if imposed—may be whatever federal judge T. Alan Goldsborough chooses. "This is a matter entirely within the discretion of the judge in a contempt case," the spokesman said.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Nov. 22—(AP)—If the coal walkout continues, John L. Lewis may get cold, too. He has probably less than a month's supply of coal at his home.

This opinion comes from Ches Fannon, the man who sells Lewis his coal. Fannon told a reporter today Lewis has a small bin for his huge house.

"It only holds about a month's supply," he said. And we haven't put in any coal lately."

Lewis has some fuel insurance, however. There's a woodpile in his backyard.

Congress Strikes

By Francis M. LeMay
WASHINGTON, Nov. 22—(AP)—Demands for suspension of the Wagner Act and for coal mining under army guards resounded today in Capitol Hill clamor for a special session of congress to deal with the coal crisis.

Pleas for President Truman to call the lawmakers into extraordinary session came from both republican and democratic ranks. There was no indication, however, that Mr. Truman contemplated such a step.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 22—(AP)—President John Marchiano of the Progressive mine workers said today his union had reopened wage negotiations with the Illinois Coal Producers association and was asking for "the same take home pay for a 30 hour week that we are receiving for a 42-hour week."

Mrs. D. K. Scruton Commissioner

Mrs. D. Kelly Scruton, commissioner; Mrs. E. T. Dillard and Mrs. H. C. Salverter, deputy commissioners; Mrs. Harold Dean, treasurer; Mrs. G. H. Abney, recording secretary and Mrs. Herman Janssen, corresponding secretary were elected officers of the Sedalia council of Girl Scouts for the year 1947 at the regular meeting of the council held at the library Thursday morning. New members welcomed to the council are Mrs. John Ryan and Mrs. Albert Steiner.

Miss Mary Jane Reilly, national field adviser for Missouri, was a guest at the meeting using her subject "The Associate Form of Government for Girl Scout Organization."

Mrs. Scruton is a former commissioner having served the council in 1942 and 1943.

Bing Crosby Had Stiff Elbow

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Nov. 22—(AP)—Actor-Singer Bing Crosby left St. John's hospital last night after a four-day routine checkup and treatment for a stiff elbow which has interfered somewhat with his golf, his principal hobby.

His physician, Dr. Arnold Stevens, would say nothing beyond that the crooner is "in top-notch shape."

Lewis Ordered to Show Why He Should Not be Held In Contempt of Court

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22—(AP)—Two Federal marshals served John L. Lewis with a summons today requiring his appearance in federal court Monday morning to answer a contempt citation resulting from the soft coal strike.

Lewis accepted the summons in his private office "without comment," an aide reported.

Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough last night ordered Lewis to show why he should not be held in contempt for refusing to withdraw his contract termination notice—the signal which led to the walkout of his 400,000 bituminous coal miners.

The two federal deputies went to Lewis' office a few minutes after he arrived at union headquarters from his home in nearby Alexandria, Va., where he had been in seclusion for the last 36 hours.

The deputies ascended to Lewis' sixth-floor office in the union building where the mine leader was waiting for them.

In Good Spirits
The marshals were with Lewis only a few minutes and then left.

Apparently in good spirits, the mine union chief emerged from his home at 10 a. m., for the short drive into the capital.

He stood on his porch to pose for cameramen, his cape on his arm and a cigar in his hand.

"Take your time, boys," Lewis said.

To reporters he said he had no statement to make other than that he was headed for United Mine Workers headquarters in Washington.

A crowd gathered around Lewis' suburban Virginia home yesterday had dwindled away. Only reporters and photographers were on hand when he emerged.

Could Go to Jail
The writ is another step toward possible clanging of jail doors in the UMW chieftain's face. It directs him to appear before U. S. district judge T. Alan Goldsborough on Monday and tell why he did not honor an order to recall his contract.

If Lewis fails then to clear himself of the contempt charge—possibly by calling off his "termination" notice or by showing that his stand is lawful—the next step will come Wednesday.

On that day, Judge Goldsborough "with an advisory jury" will decide Lewis' guilt or innocence.

If convicted, the union might be fined and Lewis sent to jail, until he obeys the court.

The contempt citation was issued late yesterday. It was not served immediately because Lewis had gone to his home in Alexandria, Va., and it had to be served in the District of Columbia.

Not Worried About Service
Associates of Lewis indicated then that there would be no difficulty about service that Lewis would make himself available in Washington.

In the mine fields, tension mounted as the idle miners watched the struggle between their leader and the government. Two men were shot fatally in West Virginia in the first major flare-up of violence.

Railroads, steel mills and their customers, public utilities and other big users of soft coal began battering down for employment a protracted work stoppage in the 3,500 government-held mines.

A "brownout" to save fuel darkened the capital dome itself, while Republican and Democratic congress members joined in demands for extraordinary measures. Some asked a special session of congress but men close to President Truman said that was unlikely.

Southern Cal Will Play U.C. of L. A.

Notre Dame Expected To Defeat Tulane On Southern Ground

By Harold Clausen
NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—(P)—Football interest shifts to the Pacific Coast tomorrow where Southern California is host to the University of California at Los Angeles in a game that will determine, to a large extent, which club competes against the Big Nine champion on January 1 in the Rose Bowl.

UCLA's gridiron forces are unbeaten this year while the Trojans were mastered by Oregon State, 21 to 0, in an intersectional affair. But the Trojans have become alive during the past month and this forecaster predicts that they will paste the first blot on the UCLA record Saturday.

Other Forecasts
Notre Dame over Tulane: The Green Wave is exactly that and that will prove fatal for the southerners unless the Irish take a siesta in Dixie sunshine. It should be one of unbeaten Notre Dame's easier victories. Notre Dame.

North Carolina over Duke: The most ardent rivals in the Southern Conference, located just a few miles apart, meeting for the loop title and a possible bowl bid.

Michigan over Ohio State: The Wolverines need a victory here and a defeat for Illinois by Northwestern to gain the Big Nine title. Illinois wins it will mean the first Big Nine title for the Illini since 1928 and a Rose Bowl trip.

Yale over Harvard: A Harvard football team seldom is defeated in November, but Yale has too much power and will march to another Big Three title. Yale.

Tennessee over Kentucky: Through the years Kentucky has always been tough for the Volunteers but the Neyland machine will triumph. Tennessee.

Skipping across the remainder of the choklines in a hurry:
Midwest
Indiana over Purdue, Minnesota over Wisconsin, Oklahoma over Nebraska, Michigan State over Maryland, Oklahoma A. and M. over Drake.

Penn State over Pittsburgh, Holy Cross over Temple, Alabama over Boston College, Princeton over Dartmouth, Columbia over Syracuse.

South
West Virginia over Virginia, Clemson over Auburn, North Carolina State over Florida, Georgia Tech over Furman, Louisiana State over Fordham (tonight), Mississippi State over Mississippi, Davidson over the Citadel, Miami over Washington and Lee (tonight).

Southwest
Rice over Texas Christian, Southern Methodist over Baylor, New Mexico over Kansas State.

Far West
Stanford over California, Oregon State over Oregon.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.
NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—(P)—The Tallahassee, Ala., high school football team, coached by Hot O'Brien of Birmingham Southern College and Hardy Pruitt of Auburn, is claiming a record because it has won 50 games in succession. Any challenges? . . . Louisville State's ten-inch center of the Detroit Basketball Falcons, won't be graduated from Valparaiso U. until late December. Until then he can only play week-ends.

One-Minute Sports Page
Latest bowl game is the "Rouge Bowl" touch football tussle which two sororities at Miami University, Oxford, O., will stage tomorrow. Probably it won't be as bad as its painted . . . Louisiana State's publicity dept. finally reveals that Y. A. Little, LSU's pitching quarterback, is known to home folks in Marshall, Texas, as Yelberton Abe. . . . Seems natural to set a moan from Notre Dame that Moose Krause doesn't have a center for his basketball team and that "all five positions are wide open." Naturally, with Johnny Lusk, George Ratterman and three or four other first-class cagers still playing football.

Singing The Blues
A few days after Penn State's football team, led by Dean Arthur A. Warnock of State received this letter from a dozen Midshipmen: "As plebes at the Naval Academy, we're required to learn the fight songs of all our football opponents. We wish, therefore, to register our disapproval of 'Fight On, State.' We think that a school which claimed Fred Waring as an alumnus could turn out a more appealing fight song."

Home From Hospital
Charles McNeil of Syracuse has returned from the hospital in Columbia where he underwent an operation. He is showing improvement.

Los Angeles Is Indignant

By Bill Becker

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 22.—(P)—The City of Angels, still seething with indignation over the Coast Conference-Big Nine closed shop on the Rose Bowl excluding Army, appeared determined today to bring the Cadets out here, one way or another.

The City Council yesterday invited Army and Notre Dame to play a rematch of their recent scoreless game, and Councilman Harold Harby said both institutions seemed receptive to the bid, with an answer probably forthcoming tomorrow. The council would stage the game December 22 or 25 in 103,000-capacity Memorial Coliseum, with most proceeds going to charity.

The game probably would be co-sponsored by the county council of the American Legion, which also wired a proposal to West Point and South Bend.

After telephone calls, Harby said Maj. Gen. Maxwell Taylor, West Point commandant, promised an answer within two days, and that Father John Cavanaugh of Notre Dame said the Irish might favorably consider the game, if Army accepts.

Name Musial Most Valuable Ball Player

Second Time to Win Honor in Four-Year Career

By Joe Reichler

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—(P)—Stanley Frank Musial, stellar first baseman of the world champion St. Louis Cardinals and his league's batting king with a .365 average, today was named the National league's most valuable player in 1946.

In winning baseball's most coveted prize for the second time in his four-year major league career, the Donora, Pa., clouter who only yesterday celebrated his 26th birthday, received the highest total of points ever accorded any player since the present rating was adopted in 1938.

Musial, who also was voted most valuable in 1943 with 267 points polled 319 points in the balloting by a 24-man committee of the baseball writers' association from each league city voted.

Previous High 305
The previous high received by any player was 305 by Jimmy Foxx in 1938 while a member of the Boston Red Sox.

Musial, tenth Redbird to receive most valuable player recognition since the award was instituted in 1912, received 22 of the 24 first place votes to make a runaway race of the balloting. Of the two writers who failed to name him on the first ballot, one placed him second and the other ninth.

Second place went to Brooklyn's Dixie Walker, the "People's Chalice," whose 150 points made him the poorest runner-up in the last nine years. The Dodgers' popular veteran rightfielder, whose .323 batting average and 116 runs batted in almost brought Brooklyn its first pennant since 1941, did not receive a first place vote, but was second choice on nine ballots.

Slaughter and Pollet Next
Outfielder Enos Slaughter and southpaw pitcher Howie Pollet, both members of the Cards, were third and fourth respectively.

Slaughter got the only two first place votes not allotted to Musial and received 144 points. He batted an even 300 during the regular season and was the runs batted in king with 128.

Pollet, whose 21 victories made him the "winningest" pitcher in the league, was the only other player to get more than 100 points. He received 116. Fifth place went to right-handed pitcher Johnny Sain of the Boston Braves.

In only other 20-game winner in the circuit, he received 95 points. Rounding out the first ten were Harold (Peevee) Reese, Brooklyn shortstop, 79; Ed Stanky, Dodger second baseman, 67; Del Ennis, hard hitting outfielder and the Philadelphia Phils' candidate for

Debate May be 'Mystery of Lake Success'

Lot of Sound And Fury on A Treadmill

By J. M. Roberts, Jr.
AP Foreign News Analyst

The United Nations debate this week over a new code of troops may go down in history as "The Mystery of Lake Success."

It all began last August, when Russia, following her usual line of seeking to arouse weak nations against their "capitalist oppressors," charged that the U. S. and British troops were on the soil of such countries as Greece and China with grasping designs. Russia asked for a count of all troops on non-enemy soil. U. S. and British delegates picked up the ball with a straight face—they all know within a corporal's guard the size of each other's contingents—and said fine, but let's count all troops away from home anywhere. Molotov finally agreed, and said let's only count them, but start talking about reducing and disarming them. This brought the jockeying into the stretch, with the British replying all right, if we're going to talk about disarming, let's count the troops at home as well as abroad, and get down to business on a police force for U. N.

Counter Embarrassment

Embarrassment in their had become counter-embarrassment. It's the Russians who have been fogging up the police force outlook to the point where the U. N. military staff has been able to do nothing. Talk of inspection to verify the reports if the nations decide to report, of tying it all in with atomic control, of deciding how many troops are actually needed for occupation and how many just constitute political pressure, have further complicated the situation—which ought not to be called a situation, but rather a nebulae, or an atom core, or something else which cannot be felt, seen or understood.

The mystery lies in why the British and Americans chose to run with this Russian punt instead of just letting it bounce out of bounds. One reason seems to be a desire to fight fog with fog—not to let the Russians get away with that propaganda that we're a bunch of wolves among the weaker nations. Another, I am told by a careful observer, is that our own American delegates are afraid for the public to learn that there's a lot of unmitigated propaganda, even approaching buffoonery, going on at Lake Success. They don't want the public to become disgusted, fear the idea might spread that nothing serious is being done and that America better "take over" the world while there's still a chance of doing so.

Another reason has developed lately—that there is a chance, though slim, of running the Russian punt back for a touchdown. Supporters of this view hope that, by appearing to take the Russia propaganda at face value and treating it seriously, they can make it become serious. All right, they say to the Russians, since you've brought it up, let's really talk about disarmament. A number of people at Lake Success to whom I've talked this week think this is the only excuse for the performance which has been put on. And most of them feel that even then it is like trying to gain weight by talking of eating.

Confesses He Killed Wife

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 22.—(P)—Police Detective Newt Burns announced that Raymond O. C. Rogers had signed a statement confessing the slaying of his wife, whose negligee-clad body was found floating in the spillway below Lake Overholser last Saturday.

A piece of clothesline wire was twisted around her neck four times.

Burns said Rogers broke down last night after he was allowed to go to Ada, Ok., to witness his wife's funeral. He was visibly shaken at the funeral.

Burns said Rogers related the following details: He and his 32-year-old wife had made the rounds of several taverns. They argued and then he took some wire from the back of his car and twisted it around her neck.

He then found she was dead, hunted up some rocks, tied them to her body and tossed her into the lake.

Closed Mines Halt Building

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 22.—(P)—Every day that the coal mines are idle means the loss of an ever-growing number of completions of veterans' homes. Wilson W. Wyatt, federal housing expediter, asserted yesterday at the opening session of the second annual convention of AMVETS, Veterans of World War II.

"It means not only the loss of foundry items, but also the curtailment of transportation, which in turn means the loss of millwork and doors for houses," Wyatt said. "The earlier coal and steel strikes cost thousands of homes."

Wyatt said veterans can help solve the housing problem by fighting for a revision in building codes, by seeing that good homesites are made available in or near cities and by analyzing the local labor situation.

He said that veterans had been placed in the "worst possible position" with regard to housing because they were away while the houses were taken.

Testifies of Net Increase

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 22.—(P)—Officials of the Santa Fe and Burlington railroads testified today at an interstate commerce commission hearing that the two roads would receive an estimated annual net increase of more than $1,800,000 in operating revenues if the Santa Fe is permitted to extend its operations to St. Louis.

J. P. McDonald, Santa Fe stationmaster, said his line would earn an additional $1,130,364 a year in net freight and passenger revenues if allowed to add St. Louis to the cities it serves. He estimated the company would receive $7,212,236 annually in gross passenger and freight business, and put the expenses of extended service into the city, including taxes at $6,081,972.

Arthur W. Lavidge, general auditor of the Burlington, estimated the net increase in annual revenue from freight and passenger business for his company would be $670,000.

Eclipse of Sun On Saturday

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—(P)—Partly cloudy weather may interfere with the view of a partial eclipse of the sun tomorrow, the weather bureau predicted today.

Observers in Canada will see a greater eclipse than those elsewhere, but it will be visible to a lesser degree across most of the United States except the extreme southwestern portion, the United States naval observatory said.

The observatory said the partial eclipse will give astronomers an opportunity to "check the interplanetary time table, showing the movements of stars in relationship to each other."

The partial eclipse starts at 9:50 a. m. and ends at 12:55 p. m., Central standard time.

Bottle Barage

TOWSON, Md., Nov. 22.—(P)—Landlord Frank P. Hendall drew a 60-day county jail sentence today after his tenants testified he drove them out of a second story window with a bottle barage.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Max Mahle, tenants for six years, told the judge that Hendall asked them to move from their apartment over his and threatened to evict them. On advice from the OPA, they refused to move.

They were awakened one night by bottles shattering against their bedroom door.

Paid Wolf Bounty

Ten dollars was paid today by Pettis county to Lewis Cornine, Nelson, for one old wolf scalp.

Coal Strike Threatens Tax Slash Plan

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—(P)—A leading Republican said today the coal strike "gravely threatens" GOP plans to slash individual income taxes by 20 per cent.

Rep. Carlson (R-Kas.), a house leader on tax legislation who becomes governor of Kansas in January, told reporters that unless stability is established between labor and management, tax reductions "will go by the board."

"Everybody must realize," he said, "that tax reduction depends on a high level of national income."

"Continued strife and work stoppages would reduce the national income. There is a possibility of a general strike. The thing could get so serious it would close up everything. Labor might suffer by strikes called by its own leaders."

Carlson, a member of the tax-writing house ways and means committee and author of the pay-as-you-go tax plan, voiced the opinion that if employment is stabilized the federal budget can be balanced next year, some payment made on the national debt, and taxes reduced.

House Republican leaders have put at the head of their legislative calendar, when they take control in January, legislation trimming individual income taxes by one-fifth and cutting back the excise list.

The latter taxes are the special levies now collected on such things as telephones and telegraph bills, automobiles, washing machines, luggage and a variety of other items.

Since the tax-cutting plan was first announced, considerable opposition has cropped up based on the contention that the budget should be balanced and a start made on reducing the national debt before tax bills are scaled down.

Any considerable drop in the national income, with consequent decline in federal revenues, may be expected to increase such sentiment.

Subway Wolf Rides Again In New York

But Most Women Feel They Can Take Care of Themselves

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—(P)—The subway wolf — that beast in human flesh who pinches pretty girls in crowded cars — is prowling and howling again. He's got the board of transportation so worried it is considering putting a "for women only" car on each express train during rush hours.

And what do the girls think of the idea?

Well, if a one-man poll proves anything, they would still rather ride bunched up with the boys and take their chances.

"We can take care of ourselves," four out of five said. They agreed that a cold stare would stop any nonsense from the average rapid transit Romeo and that in extreme cases a good hard kick with their high-heeled shoes always worked.

"But, of course, you have to be careful who you kick in a crowded car," one said.

The girls who opposed the introduction of "women only" cars said it would tend to make too much like a "Jim Crow" solution.

Sounds Like Segregation

"I don't believe in segregation of the sexes," said one pretty subway co-ed and added frankly, "These cars would take the fun out of life. It gives us a dash to mingle with men during the day. Who wants to ride with girls all the time?"

Another young lady dismissed the whole proposed with two words: "Oh, fool!"

"It isn't the men who bother you so much — it's just people, you so many people in the cars," said a chubby young office worker.

"I'm mad about my eyes," she said, "my eye poked out by an umbrella in a car full of women than I am of any subway wolf."

Women Crush Too

"Some women push and shove harder than the men during rush hours," said one.

But a tall brunette from Nebraska said she'd welcome a sorority car.

"I've been pawed and pawed. It happens often here. I never had any trouble like that in Omaha."

A girl from the old south remarked that it was "a considerable and exciting idea for somebody to treat women as ladies again." However, she thought personally she wouldn't ride in such a car when traveling with her boy friend.

"I might lose him to a blonde in one of those co-educational cars," she said.

A woman in her mid-thirties put the whole thing on a philosophical basis.

"It might be a good thing for small girls or aged and infirm women," she said, "but after all any woman who's been in New York any time at all learns how to meet situations so she doesn't get pinched or manhandled."

Can Be Handled

"The thing to do is to dispose of masher before anything happens. If a man gets too fresh in a crowded car, you can always look him in the eye and say loudly and clearly, 'Take your hands off me.' He'll get off at the next station."

The lady looked a little dreamily out the window.

"Of course," she continued, "there's all the difference in the world between an agreeable and a disagreeable masher. A few wolf calls don't hurt. As a matter of fact, I don't hear as many wolf calls when I go down the car aisles as I did a few years ago."

One veteran subway rider — distinctly male — made an angry counter proposal.

"Let those female fuss-buckets sit on the roof if they feel safer," he said. "How about a smoking car for the men, with a bar and maybe a couple poker tables? I'd pay a dime anytime to ride on a subway like that."

The present fare is a nickel.

Expense Accounts Filed

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 22.—(P)—Representative Marion T. Bennett (R) of Springfield told the secretary of state today he spent $1,590, winning re-election in the Sixth congressional district.

The pattern of his expenditure was similar to the report of Representative Dewey Short (R) of Galena, who listed $1,408 yesterday.

Father Admits Killing Child

MAIDSTONE, Eng., Nov. 22.—(P)—Gordon Richard Long pleaded guilty today to a murder charge in the mercy slaying of his seven-year-old deformed and emaciated daughter Jessie, and received with stoic calm a sentence of death on the gallows.

Eric Neve, his lawyer, said the 46-year-old father was fully aware that the charge to which he pleaded meant a mandatory sentence of death by hanging, and briefly sketched the poignant story contained in Long's written statement to the police.

The statement said Long went home last July 4 from the paper mill where he was employed resolved to do "the hardest thing I have ever done."

"I sent my wife in the garden after tea," the statement said. "I locked the back door, shut the windows and placed Jessie in the corner by the gas copper (jet). I gave her a piece of chocolate to suck. I laid my home guard respirator beside me and turned on the gas tap. I played with Jessie and kissed her, and then had to put on my respirator. x x x Then I kissed her goodbye. She closed her eyes and then went limp."

"I loved my daughter very much — more so than if she had been normal — and bringing about her death in this way is the hardest thing I have ever done."

The rosary will be recited at McLaughlin chapel at 8:30 o'clock this evening.

Palbearers will be Jackie Hickum, Edmond Bruell, Charlie Hickum, Doyle Mabry, Paul Schock and William J. Schock.

Burial will be in Calvary cemetery.

Reconciled to Quadruplets

BALTIMORE, Nov. 22.—(P)—Mrs. Charles Henn, Jr., British war bride, was "pleasantly reconciled" today to the idea of having quadruplets.

The expectant mother, taken to St. Agnes hospital Wednesday to await the arrival of a foursome, smilingly described a new set of X-rays which "all told the same story—quads. So I'm reconciled, pleasantly reconciled."

During the week since she first learned of the news, the family's financial cloud has begun to show a silver lining.

The hospital is furnishing its facilities free, and the physician attending Mrs. Henn is donating his services. The Red Cross has promised four complete layettes "with feather and drop stitches," and local dairies have been contributing to the privilege of supplying milk to the family.

To ease it all, her husband, a partially disabled veteran, told her the shrapnel wound in his leg have healed enough to allow him to go back to his old trade, book-binding.

"I'm not worrying about anything any more," Mrs. Henn said, "not even the housing problem."

The quads are expected in time for Christmas.

Commission on Church Unity

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Nov. 22.—(P)—Delegates of the newly formed Evangelical United Brethren church closed their first conference last night after naming a commission on church federation and unity.

This group is charged with the task of completing the church union of Evangelical's 260,000 members with United Brethren's 450,000 members.

Delegates voted to retain the church's nine present districts, inherited from its parent churches. Each group had an east, a central, a northwest and a southwest district. In addition, had a Pacific district. Definitions of the boundaries and jurisdictions of the districts will be a problem for denomination officials.

Trustees for the church elected Laymen—Kenneth Hobbs, Topeka, Kas.

Delegates also named four men to the church's general commission to act on applications for service as army and navy chaplains. They included Bishop D. H. Stauffer, Kansas City, Mo.

Divorce Suit Filed

A suit for divorce was filed in the circuit clerk's office today by Eva Inez Sneathen through her next friend, James O. Fulton, against David Lyle Sneathen. General indignities are alleged.

The petition states that the couple was married on or about April 27, 1946, and that they lived together until on or about November 12, 1946. The plaintiff asks for a sufficient sum of suit money, attorney's fee for her attorney of record and a reasonable amount of alimony.

Fred F. Wesner is the attorney for the plaintiff.

This is the first time that Captain Carroll, who served in the troop carrier command during the war, has been able to visit his parents since going overseas. Since the termination of hostilities Carroll has been with the European air transport service.

Thanksgiving Day

To the man in cheerful mood, the advice of St. James is: "Let him sing a hymn." When Thanksgiving Day comes, America, in a spirit of grateful joy, will offer prayer to God for the blessings of the year, just as the Pilgrim Fathers did more than 300 years ago.

Thanksgiving Day, however, should not call for a merely collective expression of grate-tude. It should be a day on which individuals pause to reflect on the gifts with which the divine Creator has enriched their lives a day on which to remember how completely they are dependent upon Him.

Gratitude to God, as some incidents in the life of Christ reminds us, is not the most outstanding trait in the lives of most men and women. When the Savior healed ten men of leprosy, only one returned to thank Him. Our hearts rejoice in the picture of the cured Samaritan who "fell on his face... giving thanks," but the lesson of the Gospel narrative is lost unless we remember at all times to praise God for His blessings.

It is an all too common failing to brood over the troubles and difficulties that are part of our lot on earth. Such brooding, however, tends to make us overlook the great many afflictions we have been spared. As we grow older, we discover how much pain and hardship we have escaped, and how very often what seemed to be a trial was really a blessing in disguise.

On the day of thanksgiving, we can strengthen our prayers of gratitude by the homage of sincere faith in the goodness of God.

Paul in Athens and Corinth
Scripture: Acts 17:22-28, 18:1-4.
I Corinthians 1:22-25

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.
Athens and Corinth were the two outstanding cities of ancient Greece. Athens had back of it a long history of culture, and in Paul's day it was the university city of the Roman world. Corinth aspiring to rival Athens, was a city of commerce, noted more for the luxurious and indulgent living of its inhabitants than for its culture.

The Scriptures give no account of a church at Athens, so the brilliant address that Paul gave on Mars hill to the assembled philosophers apparently had no permanent result.

But the record in Acts 17, of his visit to Athens and of the sermon he preached there, is among the most colorful and vital pages of the New Testament.
Paul's address was a declaration concerning the nature of God and the meaning of faith in Him, in direct and courageous challenge to cultural paganism and the vagaries of the speculatively minded.

In Corinth, however, Paul made
what was for him a long stay, at least 18 months, on his first visit. The fruits of his labors are seen in the two longest of his Epistles, with their intimate picture of life in the church there.
Apparently the church at Corinth was composed mostly of Gentile converts, though there adhered to the Christian way a few noted Jews—Crispus, the ruler of the synagogue, and Acquila and Priscilla, with whom Paul lived and worked.

As the Corinthian church grew in numbers dissensions developed, as is clear from the Epistles.

US Give Thanks." There will be a service at 7:30. Evangelistic ser-anthem, "Ye Shall Dwell in the Land," by Staller, will be sung by Mrs. M. O. Stevens, Dr. K. L.

Holdren and the choir. The all-

How sharp these were is not so clear, but Paul found it necessary to rebuke those who were occasioning division, and some of the finest passages in the Epistles deal with the nature and need of Christian unity.

A part of the trouble arose
when Apollos, an eloquent preacher, came to Corinth after Paul had left. He was a good "in (Acts 18:24-26), and there was apparently no rivalry between him and Paul, but partisans foolishly made a seeming rivalry between them, some saying, "I am of Paul," and others, "I am of Apollos."

Paul refers to his own presence as being weak, so it is possible that he was lacking in eloquence. Some have suggested, too, that "the thorn in the flesh"
to which he refers was a weakness of the eyes. In any case, the contrast between him and the eloquent Apollos was enough to occasion the thoughtless partisanship which Paul rebuked most vigorously.

"Is Christ divided?" he asked.
"Was Paul crucified for you?"
He wanted no glory for himself, but he was stirred up about these un-Christian divisions — as he would be about un-Christian divisions today.

The two Epistles to the Corinthians threw much light upon conditions in the early Christian church, but they are also full of warning and instructions for the church of today.

It is not enough to name the name of Christ or to profess fellowship in His name. "If any man have not the spirit of Christ," he is none of His." That applies to churches as well as to individuals.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"SOUL AND BODY" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, November 24, 1946.
Golden Text: Romans 12:1.

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "My flesh and my heart faileth: but God is the strength of my heart, and my portion forever." (Psalms 73:26).
The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures", by Mary Baker Eddy:
"Christian Science explains all cause and effect as mental, not physical. It lifts the veil of mystery from Soul and body. It shows the scientific relation of man to God, disentangles the interlaced ambiguities of being, and sets free the imprisoned thought." (p. 114).

torium of the Christ Ambassadors

CALL ME LIZ
by Rene Ryerson Mart

THE STORY: Red McFan, army pilot, comes home with a chestful of ribbons and a cocky swagger. He visits the varnish plant where he worked before the war as a laboratory helper. Old Man Condon, the big boss, greets him warmly. Red had saved his son's life in combat. Condon offers Red a chance to finish school and a job when he gets through. Red demurs. The prospect of getting along on $65 a month subsistence allowance after his $400 a month flying pay doesn't sound so hot.

IV

RED shook his head doubtfully. "I don't know," he said. "I— But Russel had foreseen Red's difficulty. "Wait a minute, Red," he said. "We haven't outlined the whole set-up yet. I told Dad I thought it would be a good idea for you to work part time in the laboratory here while going to school. That way you'll be right in touch with our problems and the new plans we're developing. And once you get the old sheepskin you're all set to step right into the head job. You'll be well paid for the time you put in, in the lab. Don't worry about the money part of it."

That put a different complexion on the deal. Red knew he couldn't refuse to give it a try at least. "Well, I guess all I can say is— is thanks." "Don't mention that, you big goon," Russ said affectionately. "When do I start?" Red asked. "Go up to the university and get your schedule fixed first," Arthur Condon said. "Then you can report in here for work." "Wait a minute," Russ said as Red stood up to leave. "I'm all tied up tonight, darn it. But we've got to celebrate now that you're back. What about tomorrow night— Saturday?" "All right with me," Red grinned. "But I don't know any girls here, now."

"Leave that to me," Russ said. "I'll fix you up. Blonde or brunette?" Red made a clicking sound with his tongue against his cheek. "You know me," he wisecracked. "Blonde, of course."

ELISE VARNEY stripped off her black slacks and white blouse and steps, leaving them in a huddle on the bathroom floor and sank into the steaming tub she had drawn. She let out a sigh of sheer relief. Occasionally there were days when she lost some of her fine fervor for her job.

For instance this one. It had made her heart ache to see Jim Gary leave. Not that there was any romantic attachment between them. It was rather that Jim to her was a pathetic figure. He had been her helper during the two years she had worked in the laboratory, and she had suspected long before any one else knew, that there was something serious behind his rejection by the Army.

And then on the very day when he was saying goodbye to have that great hulking brute of a pilot barge in and taunt Jim with his failure to get into the Army.

Her hands curled in hot anger at the remembrance. She'd have liked to have throttled him. The big bully!

She got out of the bath and dried herself and wrapped a white chenille robe about herself and went into the adjoining room and lay down. Presently she'd dress and go out and get something to eat, but for the moment she was too tired.

It was a nice enough room as rented sleeping rooms go. In fact above the average.

Only at times like this, when she was tired, her thoughts stole longingly back to the home she had grown up in. The big white frame house—her room in white paneling and blue satin paper with the tattered drapes and bedspread and dainty skirted vanity. She had had everything until her father died.

ELISE sighed sharply. It was never any good looking back at the past. It only brought back the old heartaches. The ineffectual struggle her poor mother, left with debts and no income, had made for a year before her own death.

It was sheer luck that Elise had liked chemistry and had majored in it at the smart women's college she had attended with Janice Condon. So when Janice Condon's father had offered a job in his laboratory she could take it without feeling that she was accepting charity.

Elise liked her job. She knew she gave a good account of herself in it and she knew Arthur Condon was satisfied. And she liked the feeling of independence it gave her. It was even more exciting now that Russel Condon was back from the war and showing an interest in her.

She heard the telephone ring in the downstairs hall and a moment later the landlady called up to say it was for her. Elise ran down the stairs to answer. It was Russel calling to remind her of their date for Saturday night. And he had something else on his mind. A pal of his had just got back from overseas. They'd have to celebrate. Could she dig up a girl for him?

"Who—Red McFan?" Elise's voice fell. "Oh, yes, I met him today in the lab."

Her first impulse was to tell Russel that she didn't care about Red McFan—that she didn't care to inflict him even for one evening on any of her girl friends. But if he was a friend of Russel's that wouldn't do.

She listened. Russel was saying something else.

"Oh, he's particular, is he? She has to be a blonde!"

A mischievous smile spread over Elise's face.

"Yes, I know some one," she said sweetly. "I know just the girl for him."

She was still smiling when she hung up. Sally Clark. Perfect! Perfect! Red would be sure to be a sucker for Sally's looks and then when he found out about Sally...

Two Slain At A Small Mine

Foreman Taken In Custody At Welch, West Va.

WELCH, W. Va., Nov. 22.—(P)—Two United Mine Workers members, who a deputy sheriff said threatened to pull the foreman of a small truck mine off a coal truck were shot to death near Welch Thursday in the first outbreak of violence in the bituminous coal stoppage in West Virginia.

Deputy Sheriff Harry Cyphers said that Roosevelt Thomas, 45, of Bottom Creek, and Will Hunt, 65, a Negro, of Eckman, were slain in the disturbance at the little Bobbie Pocahontas coal company mine at Eureka Hollow, about 15 miles southeast of Welch.

The mine employs about 10 men.

McDowell County Prosecutor Richard Parsons said Sam Curry, 49, foreman at the little Bobbie Pocahontas coal company pit at Eureka Hollow, about 15 miles from Welch, was taken into custody and a formal murder charge would be placed against him tomorrow morning. The prosecutor said Curry was taken to an unannounced location "for his own safekeeping."

It was related that Curry and two other men were unloading coal from the truck parked on a ramp. Hunt and Thomas threatened to pull Curry from the machine and the shooting followed, Cyphers continued.

Hunt was shot twice, one bullet entering near the heart and the other passing through his right collarbone.

Cyphers said witnesses reported that Thomas threw dirt at Curry and backed off. One shot was fired as he started to turn away, striking Thomas in the right chest, before he was 25 feet away.

The officer said the shots came from an automatic pistol.

Cyphers said that Thomas was employed at the Rolfe mine of the Pocahontas Corporation at the McDowell county town of Worth. The victim was identified as a former member of the UMW Mine committee at the Pocahontas pit.

There are said to be more than 300 types of common stains.

Crowd at Old Lewis Home

By Arthur Edson
ALEXANDRIA, Va., Nov. 22.—(P)—Probably the most looked at house in this coal-conscious nation Thursday was the rambling, 155-year-old structure on Oronoco Street. For there, at No. 614, lives John L. Lewis.

At any time during the day a crowd of 100 or so was gawking at the huge, silent place. Lewis didn't appear all day long.

Architecturally speaking, they didn't have much to look at. Imagine a square, three story house, with a long wing jutting off to the east.

Its paint is dingy. Its windows are covered with ancient shutters. Its yard is enclosed with a high fence.

From the standpoint of excitement, the curious didn't have much to see either.

The biggest thrill came when the butler opened the door. . . about six inches. He took in a telegram and the mail.

And still the crowd stayed on. For somewhere inside sat John L. Lewis. And even though he merely sat, he was making history.

Several blocks away stands the apothecary establishment where Martha Washington once shopped. Her chief purchase, according to the account books: castor oil.

A block south of Oronoco is Princess Street. Its cobblestones, so runs the legend, were laid by the Hessians after they were so dramatically unemployed by General Washington at Yorktown.

Several blocks away stands the apothecary establishment where Martha Washington once shopped. Her chief purchase, according to the account books: castor oil.

And the Lewis house? House Of History

It's history-crammed, too. R. F. Downham, who lives two doors down from No. 614, owned the place for 30 years. Ten years ago he sold it to Lewis.

According to Downham, in this very house Light Horse Harry Lee made his famous speech.

It was a December night in 1799. George Washington had just died.

Lee threw open the shutters of the library and told the crowd that Washington was dead—Washington, who was "first in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen."

Downham cautioned a reporter not to be fooled by the dingy exterior of Lewis' home.

"Looks terrible, doesn't it?" he asked. "But inside—I tell you there isn't a prettier place in Alexandria than this one."

Its charm, he said, comes from a long, wide hall which leads to a "magnificent arch."

And what kind of a neighbor is Lewis?

"I'll tell you right off that, politically speaking, he doesn't have my sympathy," said Downham.

"I think, for instance, that the worst mistake this country ever made was to pass the Wagner act. 'But even though I can't agree with John—I call him John, he calls me Bob—I'll say this for him. He's a fine gentleman, a mighty fine gentleman.'"

Downham said Lewis was tickled with his place, but made one change immediately.

"I had oil heat," he said, "but John took it out right away. Said he'd have to, or his miners would kill him."

Pick Has Plan To Curb Floods

Offers It On The Control Of The Osage River

EL DORADO SPRINGS, Mo., Nov. 22.—(P)—Maj. Gen. Lewis A. Pick, Missouri river division engineer Thursday offered a plan to harness effectively by flood control the rampaging Osage river which he described as possessor of the most infamous, destructive flood record in the entire Missouri river basin.

General Pick appeared at a rally of the Osage River Improvement Association here. It was his first visit to the area where differences of opinion exist as to the need for the Osage reservoir and five similar projects along the river in Missouri and Kansas.

In an address prepared for delivery at the rally, Gen. Pick acknowledged that "there are differences of opinion as to what flood control measure are necessary to give the people of this valley and the state of Missouri protection from destructive floods. I do not question the sincerity of those who take divergent views."

After pointing out that the Osage river has caused flood damage in excess of $25,000,000, the general told of the plan for improvement of the basin and harnessing of the river.

Proposes Reservoirs

He said the engineers planned six reservoirs of which three have been authorized and are located in Missouri. The other three are proposed for location in Kansas. The ones to be constructed in Missouri are the Osage, South Grand and Pomme De Terre; proposed for Kansas, the Pomona, Garnett and Melvern reservoirs.

He told his audience that he was not present to "propagandize in favor of these projects. It is up to the people of the Osage basin and other river basins in Missouri to determine what they want. We of the Corps of Engineers have no desire to thrust upon them something they themselves do not want."

He suggested that the residents of the basin make known their desires to the proper state and federal authorities.

Exhaust Fund In Fight On Polio

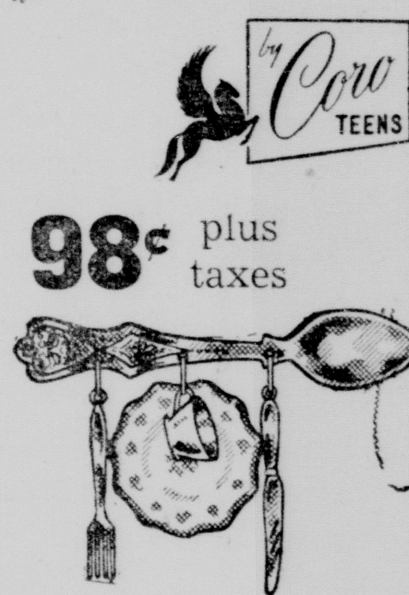

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 22.—(P)—R. T. Hensley, St. Louis, state chairman of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, said Thursday that the battle against polio this year had exhausted the foundation's funds.

Hensley, who spoke at a meeting of 27 county chairmen of the foundation in Missouri, reported that in the number of cases reported this year Missouri ranks fifth in the nation. He said that so far this year the foundation had spent $283,000 in the state in the purchase of equipment and paying for treatment of patients. The state's contribution to the March of Dimes Drive last January was $853,000. Eugene Davis, New York, regional director, said a $4,000,000 reserve fund had been exhausted in fighting the epidemic this year.

Wires Plea For Call To Congress

President Urged For Special Meet To Act On Coal Situation

By Francis M. Le May
WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—(P)—President Truman has given no indication that he is considering calling a special session of congress to deal with the coal crisis, informed capital hill sources said tonight.

One of the President's closest advisors said the President had not discussed the possibility of a special session. This official predicted no such call would be issued.

Mr. Truman's apparent disinclination to call a special session became known shortly after Senator Byrd (D-Va.) had telegraphed the chief executive a plea to reconvene congress at once to deal with John L. Lewis.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—(P)—Senator Byrd (D-Va.) telegraphed a plea to President Truman today to reconvene congress at once to deal with John L. Lewis and "not to yield one iota to this lawless and arrogant labor leader."

Byrd's telegram, disclosure of which followed a statement he issued along the same lines, added to the clamor from both Republicans and Democrats for a special session of congress.

Text of Byrd's telegram to Mr. Truman in Key West, Fla.: "Any further appeasement of John L. Lewis will have disastrous results. If one man can stagnate the activities of 142,000,000 and bring distress and suffering to the homes in our land then our democracy is a hollow sham."

"I plead with you in this crisis not to yield one iota to this lawless and arrogant labor leader. I am convinced you have the backing of the vast majority of Americans."

"I urge you to immediately call a special session of congress so that the dignity and power of our republic can be put in motion in a united front to protect the interests of the American people."

"With such determined and courageous leadership I have no fear but that ways and means will be found to produce the coal necessary to our existence."

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—(P)—Clamor for President Truman to call congress immediately into extraordinary session, for speedy action in the crucial coal situation, arose today from both Republican and Democratic ranks.

Rep. Brown of Ohio, a house Republican leader, proposed a special session, declaring to reporters:

"The President should come back from his vacation and come up and address us. We are ready to cooperate. Sure, I am for a special session."

"The new deal chickens have come home to roost. If they don't do something about the situation we will all freeze or starve before the Republicans take control of congress in January."

Senator Byrd (D-Va.), said in a statement "never has a clearer case of a direct strike against the government been presented."

Byrd urged President Truman in his statement to call a special session, "providing present labor laws need to be strengthened" to meet the situation.

Action in the crisis in which John L. Lewis is the central character would be a warning, Byrd said, "to other national labor leaders who are waiting to make similar threats against the government and the American people."

Challenge To Leaders
"Courageous leadership is vital. There is no 'easy way.' It is hard, and a challenge to all of those in authority."

Byrd predicted that additional cost increases would mean that mine owners would refuse to take back properties operated for the past six months by the government.

This, he declared, will result in nationalization of the coal mines and "inevitably" would be followed by nationalization of the railroads and other utilities.

Byrd added that "as a Democrat" he believes the recent Republican election victory stemmed from wide spread belief "that our government had yielded so much power to great labor leaders as to build up a labor dictatorship which seriously menaces our future."

Rep. Hoffman (R-Mich.), offered a specific proposal for action, telling newsmen:

"The President should call congress back into special session to suspend the Wagner act until they (the miners) go back to work."

The Wagner act guarantees labor the right of collective bargaining and forbids "unfair labor practices."

Rep. Smith (D-Va.), co-author of the Smith-Connally war labor disputes act intended to prevent strikes against the government, said:

"A special session suits me. We need something to quell the dictatorship of John L. Lewis and a few others."

"We can't put up with this situation very much longer—where one man can tell us whether the trains can run or whether we shall freeze to death."

However, he added, the legisla-

Declares CIO In No Threat To Call Strikes

Philip Murray And Schwollenbach In Talks Thursday

By James P. Hackett
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 21.—(P)—The national CIO convention called on American industry today to grant "substantial wage increases" this winter to meet advancing living costs but President Philip Murray immediately gave assurance there is no threat of strikes in the offing.

Secretary of Labor Lewis B. Schwollenbach told the convention that real weekly earnings of factory workers had declined by 16.6 percent between April, 1945, and September, 1946, because of increases in prices of items the workers must buy.

Sizeable wage increases in the first year after V-J day "did not maintain the wartime level of average weekly earnings," Schwollenbach said, adding:

"If the cost of living had remained reasonably stable, the position of workers, even though slightly below the wartime level, would have been satisfactory. But the living cost as measured by the bureau of labor statistics, rose 14 percent between April, 1945, and September, 1946."

Schwollenbach suggested, however, that "certain union leaders" might pay attention to the economic "law of diminishing returns," without elaborating on the statement.

Not Threatening Strikes

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 21.—(P)—CIO President Philip Murray said today the CIO is "not threatening strikes" and is "not running around this nation with a club in its hands, threatening the people."

In a speech to the CIO convention, Murray said to industry: "Come on, be decent; be gentlemen. Sit around the bargaining tables and let us arrive at mutually satisfactory wage agreements without resort to strikes."

That is our position. It is not the attitude of the bludgeoned fist, threatening the nation."

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 21.—(P)—The CIO convention today adopted unanimously a resolution calling for "substantial" wage increases — but there was no definite indication just how much of a wage hike the delegates would consider "substantial."

Walter Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers, said in a speech that the "real" earnings of American workers—in terms of purchasing power—had been cut 20 percent since January, 1945.

Murray spoke after Walter Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers, had called for a "common war chest" of $10,000,000 to $12,000,000 to back any single CIO union in a fight for higher wages.

Will Push Wage Fight
Murray left no doubt the CIO wage fight would be pushed, but he denied that it would "agitate inflation" or "jeopardize our economy."

"There are a lot of notions going around," he said. "That the CIO is bent on engaging in widespread strikes. The CIO wants to make a bargain. We want a fair deal. There is no threat of strikes in the offing. We want decent, straight, clean, honorable collective bargaining."

He said the CIO wants the employers of the nation to "recognize their responsibilities and obligations," adding:

"The owners of great wealth must necessarily have public responsibilities which run beyond their stockholders and coupon clippers."

Search Alps For 11 Stranded

"We Want To Live" Plea Of Plane Wrecked Group

By Louis Nevin
PARIS, Friday, Nov. 22.—(P)—The planes of four countries, racing against time and bitter winter weather, prepared to wing their way over a new area of the Alps today searching for 11 Americans stranded in the frozen fastness since a U. S. army transport crash-landed there Tuesday.

Spurring the searchers was this despairing plea received from the survivors: "It is urgent, we want to live." Even as the new search was pushed home gradually dimmed of finding all the occupants of the downed plane alive.

On the strength of a new radio "fix" on the transport's supposed position, the main search was being shifted to a spot 30 miles south of the Swiss town of Interlake. This was approximately 80 miles northeast of the original search area in France.

U. S. air force headquarters at Wiesbaden, Germany, said that triangulation on radio beams sent by the missing plane gave a new indication of the place where the transport is believed to have come down.

Swiss fighter planes prepared to join American, British and French aircraft in the search in the hope of sighting the marooned Americans before cold, hunger and suffering from injuries could overcome them.

Earlier, nearly 30 planes returned back to their bases and reported failure to sight the stranded party. So far as was known French, Italian and American Alpinists, struggling through deep snow, had failed to reach the ship. Mountain fogs swept into the area.

Message Received
French radio stations at Lyon and Grenoble told of receiving the message reflecting the despair of the 11 Americans—eight of whom were termed "stretcher cases" in an earlier appeal recorded at headquarters of U. S. Army forces in Vienna, as they prepared to spend a third night in the cold wilderness battling for survival without medical attention or adequate food.

American nurses and doctors were among those who joined in the search by land. Gen. John C. Lee, commander in the Mediterranean theater, sent out a detachment of American infantry mountain climbers.

Bennett Plans Sugar Action

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—(P)—Rep. Bennett (R-Mo.) declared today that he will introduce legislation in the new congress to halt sugar exports unless "administration officials" take such action before then.

The Missourian said in a statement that scarcity of sugar "is largely attributable to exports authorized by the administration."

"Much of this sugar has gone to Russia and Russian dominated countries," he said, at the "very time" that the "CIO has tied up Hawaiian sugar exports to the continental United States with a strike which started September 1 and is being terminated 12 weeks later at the close of the local canning season."

Pick Has Plan To Curb Floods

Offers It On The Control Of The Osage River

EL DORADO SPRINGS, Mo., Nov. 21.—(P)—Maj. Gen. Lewis A. Pick, Missouri river division engineer, today offered a plan to harness effectively by flood control the rampaging Osage river which he described as possessor of the most infamous, destructive flood record in the entire Missouri river basin.

General Pick appeared at a rally of the Osage River Improvement Association here. It was his first visit to the area where differences of opinion exist as to the need for the Osage reservoir and five similar projects along the river in Missouri and Kansas.

In an address prepared for delivery at the rally, Gen. Pick acknowledged that "there are differences of opinion as to what flood control measure are necessary to give the people of this valley and the state of Missouri protection from destructive floods. I do not question the sincerity of those who take divergent views."

After pointing out that the Osage river has caused flood damage in excess of $25,000,000, the general told of the plan for improvement of the basin and harnessing of the river.

Proposes Reservoirs
He said the engineers planned six reservoirs of which three have been authorized and are located in Missouri. The other three are proposed for location in Kansas. The ones to be constructed in Missouri are the Osage, South Grand and Pomme De Terre; proposed for Kansas, the Pomona, Garnett and Melvern reservoirs.

He told his audience that he was not present to "propagandize in favor of these projects. It is up to the people of the Osage basin and the state of Missouri to determine what they want. We of the Corps of Engineers have no desire to thrust upon them something they themselves do not want."

He suggested that the residents of the basin make known their desires to the proper state and federal authorities.

Delegate To UN Parley Is Shot

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(P)—Dmitri Manuilsky, Soviet Ukrainian delegate to the United Nations, tonight termed "political" the shooting today of a fellow delegate during a delicatessen holdup but New York's police commissioner expressed belief no such motive was involved.

Manuilsky, at a U. N. committee session at Lake Success, made his statement to newsmen and declared that he planned to "take action."

He declined to elaborate, however, as to just why he regarded the shooting, in which Gregory Stadnik, 42-year old Ukrainian delegate, was shot in the right thigh, as a political incident or what he intended to do about it.

Earlier, Police Commissioner Arthur W. Wallander termed the affair as merely "a stickup" and said "it no political plot."

Stadnik, taken to a hospital, where his condition was reported not serious, was shot as he and another Ukrainian, A. D. Voyna, entered the store just as the two men were fleeing after a holdup, which netted $150. On of the men opened fire with a pistol, police said, when the Ukrainians were slow in complying with an order to line up against the showcase.

Charge Attempt On Life
LONDON, Friday, Nov. 22.—(P)—The Moscow radio declared today that an attempt was made "on the life" of Gregory Stadnik, A. D. Voyna, Ukrainian delegates to the United Nations Assembly, in a New York delicatessen Wednesday evening.

"Two unknown men armed with revolvers fell upon the Ukrainian delegates just as they entered the shop where they were in the habit of buying fruit," th broadcast said. "Stadnik was seriously wounded by an explosive bullet fired from point-blank range."

"Although the attempt was made in the center of the city the attackers succeeded in making their escape."

According to the broadcast, "indignation" has been expressed in U. N. Assembly circles over the fact that "American security organs were unable to safeguard the inviolability of delegates."

Smith-Cotton Tigers Turn To Basketball

Coach Bob Rogers To Issue Shoes To Players On Monday

Smith-Cotton Tigers will now turn their attention to a new sports menu for the next four months—basketball. Coach Robert "Bob" Rogers has issued a call for all boys interested to report Monday and gym shoes will at that time be "checked out." Incidentally the first season regular game will be December 11, playing the Columbia high school Kewpies, there.

Coach Ralph "Stub" Dow changes places with Coach Rogers Monday. Dow will become Rogers assistant in basketball, while the past two and a half months Rogers was Dow's assistant in football. The two coaches agree the Tiger cages should be up to par with the 1945-46 team as seven of the last season lettermen are coming back this year.

Rogers explained Saturday he has such a short time to whip the boys into shape for this first game to be followed on the 12, 13 and 14th with a tournament. The tournament is sponsored by Missouri Valley College at Marshall.

They have a short time to get the Junior High school aggregation into condition for their first basketball contests. This team is entered in their tournament sponsored by the Tipton high school there on December 4, 5 and 6th.

The Senior high school practice sessions start this week and the Junior high school team is expected to get underway after Thanksgiving. However, some of the lower classmen have already been doing some cage practicing on their own.

Several new players are expected to be out for the Varsity squad and competition is reported touch. Coach Rogers and Dow agreed with the undisputed football championship of the Central Missouri League now tucked away for 1946 they will work the boys hard to capture the title of basketball of the Conference for 1946-47.

Fertilize For Better Pasture

A series of seven experimental plots to determine the effect of reseeded and fertilization of permanent pastures have been set up on the Henry Alt farm. The Alt farm is in the Flat Creek community, 8 miles south of Sedalia. Contour furrows, or small headlands laid off on the contour, had been plowed every 20 feet across this pasture, several years ago. The fertilizer was drilled up and down hill across 5 of these 20 foot spaces.

The fertilizer was applied October 3rd with a wheat drill at the rate of 666 lb. per acre. Mixtures used were 12-12-12 and 12-12-2 with a check strip between.

Only the fertilizer treatment was given to the top 2 contour strips. The third strip was seeded on October 4th to a mixture of red top, timothy and orchard grass. The fourth and fifth strips from the top received the above mixture plus bromegrass.

The same mixture of the four grasses was also applied to a sixth contour strip while a seventh strip received only Bromegrass. Strips No. 6 and 7 received no fertilizer. The seed was disced in on these five plots.

The growth from representative areas in each plot will be harvested next summer, cured and weighed to determine highest yields.

Intensive Use With A Tractor Bred Stock

Hughesville 4-H Member Writes On Its Operation

Editor's Note: In the following story Robert Knight, a member of the Hughesville 4-H club gives his version of what a well running tractor means to their farm. Robert is one of the Pettis county contestants in the national 4-H club better machinery project.

My father and I farm about 350 acres of land where we raise registered Hereford cattle and Hampshire hogs. A well running tractor on our farm is almost a necessity. This is especially true since most of our farming land is about five miles from our home.

We have a Case D-C tractor which is large enough to pull almost anything you wish to hitch on to it. We built a large pond about fourteen feet deep in three days and if we had used a team it would have taken one man two weeks or longer to move the same amount of dirt. One nice thing about a tractor is that you can drive it almost anywhere you want to while a team will not always do what you want them to do.

Frequent Check On Implements

When it is cool and often wet at times in the spring a well running tractor is, I believe, a necessity for the average farmer that has a lot of oats to sow. A good tractor and implements that are kept in good repair makes farming a pleasure. We keep our tractor and all of our implements in a shed when they are not in use. All parts are frequently checked for repairs and parts are also greased as they need it. No matter how good a farm tractor may be, if the other implements aren't in good repair, but keep breaking down, one just doesn't get along very well.

We use our tractor for many things. Among the more plowing, discing, harrowing, pulling the grain binder, and corn binder, raking hay, pulling a four foot tumble bug, pulling the grain drill for sowing oats and wheat, and we also use it to operate a large roughage mill that we have to grind fodder, shell our corn and separate it from the fodder.

A well running tractor helps a farmer prepare a better seed bed for his crops and a well prepared seed bed goes a long way in producing a good crop.

Our tractor is checked each day it is used, the oil is changed when necessary, battery checked frequently, and the correct amount of air is kept in the tires at all times. We consider our tractor the most important thing on our farm and we try to keep it in as good condition as we can.

I am fifteen years old and if I had to do much farming with a team I don't think I would be too much interested.

Smith-Cotton Conference Champions

Touchdowns Made By Mickens, Potts And Rodgers: Score 20-6

Friday afternoon it was a dark, gloomy and rainy day at Liberty Park for football weather, but it couldn't have been brighter for the Smith-Cotton Tigers if the sun had been shining—the Tigers defeated Missouri Military Academy, Mexico, Mo., for the championship of the Central Missouri Conference. The Sedalians are undisputed in their claim to the championship, having defeated every team in the conference, Hannibal, Columbia, Jefferson City, Kirksville and M. M. A.

A Whirling Drive

It opened with a whirling drive in a driving rain for the Tigers who marched down the field for the first touchdown and an extra point to take the lead. From then on it appeared as if the 7 to 0 score might stand for the next three quarters. To get this touchdown the Tigers had to drive 122 yards.

Taking the kickoff on their 13 yard line, the Tigers started their forward and backward march. On the first play they were penalized five yards putting them back to the 8 yard line. Rodgers took it for two yards and on the next play went 29 yards around left end. Mickens on three plays added the next first down; Rodgers added 19 more for another first; On the next play 15 yard penalty was suffered, then Rodgers added two, Mickens 2 more and then Mickens broke through for 19 yards, he hit the line for three yards and a first; Mickens on the next play added five but lost it and 15 more yards when Sedalia was penalized 15 yards.

Rodgers came back with 11 yards, Mickens added 6, and Rodgers on the next two plays had no gain followed by a left end, putting the ball on the one yard line and a set up play, Mickens carried it over for the touchdown and then went through the line for the extra point.

In this first quarter Frank Urban added to his honors a blocked punt. Just before the quarter ended he broke through to block a punt by Meadows. Blocking this punt gave Urban a leather jacket and Charles J. McHenry of the Smoke House and he was the second Tiger for the season to get one. Carl Barbour, having done this in the Kirksville game.

In the second quarter Mickens fumbled on the 38 and M.M.A. recovered, but the break didn't last long for M.M.A. as the Tigers recovered when M.M.A. could go no farther than the 15 yard line. In four tries M.M.A. however, got another break when Coffey broke through to block Egbert's punt, and recovered on the 29 yard line. Botterman fumbled and recovered with a 3 yard loss. Clemmens took the ball around left end and went the distance for the touchdown. He failed on a line play for the extra point.

The half ended Smith Cotton 7, M.M.A. 6.

Following half, the Tigers opened the second half with a determination. Rodgers took Boudoures kickoff on his own 20 and returned to M. M. A.'s 36 yard line. Picking up one first down, the Tigers on a fourth down made a beautiful pass Rodgers to Bergman for 14 yards, but it was an inch from a first down.

Determined not to lose the ball the Cadets elected to drive on a fourth down and failed the ball going back to Sedalia on M.M.A.'s 20 yard line. Sedalia made four tries picking up 13 yards but a 5-yard penalty kept them from a first down, and M. M. A. took over again on their 12 yard stripe. Meadows after three plays punted and the ball went out on their own 30-yard line. Picking up six yards and coupled with a successful pass Rodgers to Green, the Tigers net any gain, and M. M. A. took over again.

It was here the big break of the game came for Sedalia. The ball on M. M. A. 26 yard line, Botterman, was back, and just before the ball was snapped the quarter horn blew. However the M. M. A. center, Fishel didn't hear it, nor Botterman, and he went into a huddle and hurling through the Tigers for 74 yards and a touchdown play. It didn't count and the ball was called back.

The fourth quarter was the "big period" for the Tigers. After taking over on Sedalia's 46 yard line, a march started for the goal and it ended with the Tigers pulling the "Minnesota" a lateral from Mickens to Schultz to Rodgers, who scooted around right end for seven yards and punted. M. M. A. was caught flatfooted on the play. Mickens took it over for the extra point.

Cadets Are Desperate
Desperate the Cadets took the ball on their 28 on the kickoff. Fernstrum lost three yards, two passes by Meadows were incomplete, and on a third attempt Meadows was caught back for a ten yard loss. Sixteen yards from the goal Frank Potts took the ball and ran the distance for a touchdown. A line plunge failed for the extra point.

After getting the ball on the kickoff, M. M. A. pulled three plays which netted six yards and the game ended. The Tigers victorious 20 to 6 and champions, undefeated for the first time.

Citation For Contempt In Federal Court Is Ordered Against Lewis

disobeyed and violated" Justice Goldsborough's order of Monday directing that the contract termination which sprang the walk-out be called off.

The government's petition for the contempt action was based upon an affidavit from the coal mines administrator, Capt. W. H. Collisson of the Navy, declaring that Lewis was in contempt on these five grounds:

1. Continuing his contract termination notice in effect after the court order of Monday.
2. Breaching the government contract by terminating it.
3. "Instigating, inducing and encouraging" the miners "to interfere, by strike, slowdown, walk-out and cessation of work," with operation of the mines.
4. Permitting the contract termination notice to remain outstanding, "thereby completing the calling of a strike."
5. Failing to withdraw the termination notice and to advise the miners to that effect.

All five of these things were items covered by Justice Goldsborough's order of Monday.

Two United States marshals took the order as soon as it was signed to the headquarters of the UMW here for service. C. Michael Kearney, chief deputy marshal, said Lewis would have to be served within the District of Columbia. Service at his home in nearby Alexandria, across the line in Virginia, would not be valid because the action is a civil proceeding, Kearney explained.

Although Lewis has been at his home all day, Kearney told news-men he has no worries about being unable to serve Lewis within the district.

"He is not ducking," Kearney commented.

But it appeared that the crippling mine walkout could continue into next week unless Lewis yields in the meantime or the government finds further measures to take. It costs the nation an estimated 2,200,000 tons of soft coal a day. It began on the dot today following the terms of Lewis' announcement of the contract termination.

The 400,000 miners stayed home. The American flag—symbol of federal possession—flew over the pits, but nothing stirred. Even 7,500 of the Anthracite miners quit, although no question has been raised about their contract still being in force.

Wires Plea For Call To Congress

not to be fooled by the dingy exterior of Lewis' home.

"Looks terrible, doesn't it?" he asked. "But inside—I tell you—there isn't a prettier place in Alexandria than this one."

Its charm, he said, comes from a long, wide hall which leads to a "magnificent arch."

"And what kind of a neighbor is Lewis?"

"I'll tell you right off that, politically speaking, he doesn't have my sympathy," said Downham.

"I think, for instance, that the worst mistake this country ever made was to pass the Wagner act. But even though I can't agree with John—I call him John, he calls me Bob—I'll say this for him: He's a fine gentleman, a mighty fine gentleman."

Downham said Lewis was tickled with his place, but made one change immediately.

"I had oil heat," he said, "but John took it out right away. Said he'd have to, or his miners would kill him."

In Atlanta, Ga., Senator Brewster (R-Maine), predicted to reporters the coal work stoppage would lead to strong anti-labor legislation. He deplored the absence of Mr. Truman from Washington, and commented that "injunctions don't settle strikes and they don't mine coal."

Rep. Rankin (D-Miss), commented with the President in Key West, Fla., proposing an extraordinary session for passage of legislation "that will protect the American people against this wave of unwarranted strikes and put a stop to the present reign of the racketeers."

Cutbacks Due Strike Of Miners

Railroad at Cheyenne, Wyo., said an estimated 30-day reserve stockpile was available for coal-burning freight locomotives. The bulk of passenger traffic is hauled by diesel or oil-burning engines.

The Solid Fuels Administration Office in Pittsburgh reported it was flooded with requests for emergency coal from railroads, food processors, small mills and refrigeration plants.

Brownouts Started

The first official municipal action on brownouts took place in Washington, District of Columbia, commissioners ordered a dimout of outdoor display lighting, effective tomorrow at midnight.

The city of Atlantic La., population 6,000, ordered a brownout to conserve a nine-day coal supply. Elsewhere in Iowa, utilities and industries reported stockpiles high enough to last 30 days or more. Coal yards had supplies of from three days to three weeks.

National Picture

The state-by-state picture:

West Virginia — All 102,000 miners walked off jobs at 605 commercial pits in the nation's leading coal state.

Pennsylvania — All 100,000 soft coal miners in western Pennsylvania idle.

Kentucky — All the state's 50,000 UMC miners were idle, closing 260 large mines. Approximately 1,000 Progressive mine Workers were still on the job in four large mines and about 5,000 independents were working 1,250 small truck mines.

Illinois Miners Out

Illinois — All mines employing UMW members closed, idling 20,000. About 850 Progressive mine workers also did not report for work. However, other Progressive mines operated. The Progressives have about 18,000 members in the state.

Alabama — UMW mines in the southern steel state were down 100 percent, idling 20,000. Some 2,000 men kept working at non-union operations.

Maryland — 100 percent walkout in western Maryland's two coal producing counties, normally employing 2,500.

Other states reporting complete walkouts, included Ohio, 20,000 miners; Virginia 16,000, Tennessee 10,500, Colorado 6,400, Wyoming 4,300, Utah 4,000, Arkansas-Oklahoma 4,000, Maryland 2,500, Kansas-Missouri 2,500, New Mexico 1,300, Washington 1,200, Montana 900, Iowa 700 and Indiana 800.

The nationwide shutdown of soft coal choked off the flow of vital fuel to industries and homes.

Robert Griffith, Colorado area distribution manager of the solid fuels administration, forecast "a lot of suffering" there because the early November storm handicapped production and increased consumption. The situation, he said, is going to be "very bad."

Several Colorado cities eliminated use of school buildings at night and hospitals reduced room temperatures six degrees to save coal.

General Motors announced in Detroit it has only a 24-hour supply of steel on hand. The Ford company said it could continue making part of its own steel for three weeks.

One of the heaviest train service cuts was that of the New York Central, which is lopping off 165 passenger trains Monday. The Erie railroad announced at Cleveland it was able to avert passenger train cuts by confining cancellations to solid mail, baggage and express trains.

The Virginia state corporation commission ordered all its public utilities to show cause Saturday why a power rationing program should not be instituted there.

Meanwhile, Governor William M. Tuck of Virginia said he was trying to "line up" loyal Americans who will dig coal.

A brownout at state government buildings in Springfield, Ill., was ordered, beginning tomorrow, to save coal. About 1,600 Progressive mine workers joined the walkout in Illinois. The rest of the 18,000 PMW members in the state stayed at work.

Dimout At Capital

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—(P)—The nation's capital will begin a strike-caused dimout tomorrow at midnight, the first of what may be many coal-hardening steps affecting millions throughout the country.

Reductions in train travel, freight shipments, house heating, manufacturing and even the dispatch of mail—all are in the cards, if the soft coal strike drags on. Preliminary measures already have been taken. Other orders are being drafted.

Government buildings all over the country were directed today to lower their heat temperatures to the wartime maximum of 68 degrees if they use coal.

The District of Columbia commissioners ordered the dimout here on finding that there is only enough coal on hand to run the city's electrical power plant for 33 days on a normal basis.

Their order forbids outdoor advertising, display window lighting, interior decorative lighting and permits one lone bulb for theater marquees. It says that street cars can't be warmed to more than 40 degrees.

Retail coal dealers still are allowed to sell a consumer, who says he needs it, as much as a 10-day supply of soft coal. He must declare he has less than a 10-day supply on hand. CPA Chief John D. Small has said that industry will get any of the available mine stocks only in rare instances, as they are frozen for vital needs.

Small and Capt. N. H. Collisson, head of the federal mines administration, see the condition of reserve stocks in somewhat different lights.

While Small said there is only enough for "urgent needs," Collisson said the country is in a fairly favorable position, similar to that of last spring when the nation weathered a 59-day strike.

Truman Continues Schedule

By Ernest B. Vaccaro

KEY WEST, Fla., Nov. 21.—(P)—President Truman went 440 feet down into the Atlantic today on a captured German submarine while his cabinet carried on his fight with John L. Lewis over the closing of the nation's soft coal mines.

Members of his party said Mr. Truman had not heard from Washington where a petition pressing contempt proceedings against the chief of the United Mine Workers was prepared.

While one of the most important battles of his own career proceeded at Washington, the president witnessed simulated battle problems from the control room while submerged at 440 feet, and from the conning tower while surfaced.

KEY WEST, Fla., Nov. 21.—(P)—President Truman proceeded today with his vacation schedule of the nation's soft coal mines.

The president's next step has been left.

ment went ahead with plans to press the contempt proceedings against John L. Lewis.

Donning tan slacks and a pink sports shirt, the president took a ride on the U-2513, a former German sub captured shortly before the close of the war. One of the object of examination at this naval submarine base.

Reporters, questioning presidential press secretary Charles G. Ross as the party boarded the vessel, were told "There's nothing new—no developments" on the coal strike from temporary White House headquarters here.

"All we know is that they (the miners) went out," special counsel Clark M. Clifford said.

Rose said the White House staff here had not talked since last night with Attorney General Tom Clark and interior secretary J. A. Krug, government operator of the mines, in whose hands the administration's next step has been left.

Abandon Football In Rebellion

MOUNT VERNON, Ga., Nov. 21.—(P)—An abrupt halt to the football schedule was called at little Brewton-Parker College today when the President said 10 players who rebelled against refusal of the school to make scholarship payments were expelled.

Dr. Charles T. Ricks, the president, said the football coach, Franklin Ross Jones, who came to Brewton-Parker this year from a high school assignment at Monroe, N. C., was discharged as a result of the rebellion.

The rebellion began immediately after morning chapel exercises at the Baptist denomination junior college yesterday, and Dr. Ricks said the 10 players who were expelled tried to get other students to follow them.

The other students refused to follow, but the players persisted and paraded in front of the school carrying signs saying "Brewton-Parker is unfair," "State troopers were called, but Dr. Ricks said no action by them was necessary."

The 10 men who were expelled were loaded on a bus today and taken from the campus to be transported to their homes. Dr. Ricks said Jones left immediately for his home in Hickory, N. C.

The president said the players, without his knowledge, had been promised $1,800 a year for tuition and board, and that he called a halt to the game.

Brewton-Parker, which has 300 students, resumed football this year after a 10-year lapse. The record this season included two wins, four losses and a tie. Three games remained on the schedule.

Dr. Ricks said other athletics would be continued this year, and that he hoped football could be resumed next season.
